Learning languages plays an important role nowadays

I agree with this statement because the number of people learning foreign languages is increasing every year. There are a lot of ways to learn languages.

Some people think that the best way for it is studying at language schools. While the others claim that they are able to do it by their own.

Learning languages plays an important role nowadays

In my opinion, the best way is to take classes at language schools.

- Firstly, because they provide different levels where everyone can find what he needs depending on his or her aim.
- Secondly, it's more effective as you have teachers to help you.
- Moreover, it's great to have other students in the class where you can learn and practice together.

However, there are people who think it's a waste of time attending courses when your free time is very limited.

They think that, there is a great variety of different online programs on the Internet which are helpful to learn to speak, read books and expand vocabulary.

Actually, I cannot agree with this opinion because trying to find the course you need on the Internet, you may spend much more of your free time. Besides, there is no any guarantee that the program you have found is effective and it's exactly what you need.

Learning languages plays an important role nowadays

In conclusion, I believe that despite of some drawbacks of the online courses, language schools still remain the most productive in learning languages. I am convinced, that nothing can be more successful than a communication with your classmates and a feedback from your teacher.
